

WATER

Masayuki Kurokawa

This comfortable chair is named WATER as it recalls the gentle smoothness of water. The master and the guest chair present slightly different appearances, not only to signify the status of their users but also to harmoniously pair with the WIND tea table. The “floating” seat, armrest protection and bended wooden back structure highlight the extreme attention to refined craftsmanship, an essential element of Asian design.

STRUCTURE

Structure in bent plywood, upholstered with non-removable covering in fabric or leather

FINISHING

Whole piece in smoked oak, stained oak or natural walnut
